The following is an excerpt from the Streetwise Reports interview with Bill Newman, vice president of international oil and gas with Mackie Research Capital, "As Argentina Backpedals, Will Oil and Gas Companies Step on the Gas?"

"Madalena Energy Inc. is an oil and gas exploration and production company with an interest in three blocks in the prolific Neuquén Basin in Argentina, and 92,800 acres in Paddle River Alberta. Oil and natural gas prices are expected to continue to rise in Argentina and we are hopeful that the government will implement additional investment incentives that could be beneficial to Madalena. The shale plays in the Neuquén Basin of Argentina offer world-class resource potential and Madalena is well positioned to capitalize on the unconventional plays. The company continues to make progress on all three of its blocks located in Argentina. . .Decree 929 makes it more likely that the major and super major oil and gas companies will continue to invest in Argentina and this is good news for Madalena because [the] company is in the process of farming out highly prospective block. Madalena hopes to find a partner for its Curamhuele block before year."
